Jesse Woodworth

Jesse Woodworth has always had a heart for serving others. From serving his country in the United States Army to caring for patients as a registered nurse, his career has been built around helping people through important moments in their lives. Today, he brings that same dedication, compassion, and steady guidance to his clients at Treadstone Funding.

Jesse joined the Army at 17 years old and quickly rose through the ranks. Serving in a combat leadership role in Afghanistan shaped his work ethic, strengthened his problem-solving skills, and taught him to remain calm under pressure. Above all, it reinforced his commitment to taking care of the people counting on him.

After returning home from deployment, Jesse found himself raising three children on his own and pivoted to pursuing a new future for his family. Upon discharge, he attended nursing school, graduated at the top of his class, and began a career as a registered nurse. Along the way, he met the love of his life, Jennifer. Today, they live in Jenison with their five children, a husky, and two cats.

Jesse's path into lending began when his sister-in-law, a mortgage professional with 20 years of experience, recognized that his compassion and determination would make him a natural fit. He took a leap of faith, left nursing, and completed a three-year apprenticeship to learn the mortgage industry. His hard work earned him Rookie of the Year honors and helped build the foundation for his approach to lending: listen closely, explore solutions, and put people first.

Jesse especially enjoys working with fellow veterans and first-time homebuyers. As a veteran himself, he understands the significance of earned VA benefits and helps fellow service members navigate the VA loan process with clear explanations and personal insight. For first-time buyers, he takes the time to answer questions, explain their options, and make an unfamiliar process feel approachable. Whether navigating a challenging situation or celebrating a smooth closing, Jesse treats his clients like family and stays focused on their goals.

Outside of work, Jesse enjoys Michigan life with Jennifer and their children, from summer days on the pontoon and hunting in the fall to board games around the table. His faith is central to his life, and he serves as one of the lead worship singers at his church. He also supports persecuted pastors in Vietnam through financial contributions and personal visits, continuing his commitment to serving others both close to home and around the world.

Jesse Woodworth
616.268.2917
JesseW@treadstonemortgage.com

200 N Beacon Blvd
Grand Haven, MI 49417
www.lakeshorelenders.com

Jesse Woodworth NMLS 2684565 | Neighborhood Loans NMLS 222982

neighborhoodloans®
TREADSTONE MORTGAGE DIVISION